

Confidentiality and the Problems Verifying Claims about Children's Testimony

Professor Ross E. Cheit
Department of Political Science
Brown University
Ross_Cheit@Brown.Edu

Prepared for AAAS 2004 Meetings

Handout note

- The title and last slides are available here.
If you would like to view the rest of the slides please email your request to:
Ross_Cheit@Brown.Edu

A few conclusions:

- Claims about testimony in court cases should not be published or accepted when they are offered without any way for independent scholars to scrutinize the data.
- Skepticism should be exercised when quotes are offered without the basic elements of citation or attribution.
- When sources are not open and accessible, then the limitations on access should be discussed and analyzed along with any data presented.